LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Isn't this a weird looking magazine? It's kinda rare, especially on all weird magazines like this one. But people call it "weird." I call it "weird and odd I know" in are when Jeff swipes the job, damn it, when finish the golden year with it, when people are with my work and to write an editor's note. Thanks a lot, Jeff. In your last article, and even if you didn't, we're a little late this time around. But's because we decided to take the time to bring you, the reader, a truly weird issue. With's work got that way, but that's what we decided. Happy Holidays! But there's my appreciation? In the way, since this issue is late that means our job isn't perfect, it'll be postponed. That means Jeff can't take his job back again until the off season. Sorry, but.

60 Miles North

I am writing in regard to John Plume's letter in a recent issue of 60 Miles North. I just want to say the boy is right! He and countless numbers of my friends would have him anytime, along with any other number of ill reputes, or Dr. Know or any of the real news-magazine people!

I may sound like a slot, but I'm just saying what I feel—when it comes to John Plume, I do want it all the time.

Sincerely yours,
Marilyn Ash

Dear Gary,

I would like to say your idea is really cool. Also, I do a time called PUBLIC ENEMY #1 which we recently started and if anyone is interested number 2 is now out with bands like Deery, Rabies Outpost, Justice League, and a couple more. If you'd like an issue, send 50¢ or 1.00 stamp or if anyone wants to correspond write to Cesar, P.O.B. 141, Carpinteria, CA 93013.

thans,
Cesar

Sixty Miles North.

I got your rag a couple weeks ago. My friend picked it up at Safeway and sent it to me. I love it. I just moved to Colorado from Ventura a month ago. DMN keeps me in touch with the scene out there.

Believe it or not, there is a scene here in Colorado Springs. It took me a few weeks to find it, but I did. I've been to a couple gigs and heard a few local bands practicing. It's not that bad!

I thought that was cool reading about False Confession. I know I'm not pretty well! I hope they get their shit together!!

Mr. Twister

Dearest Sam,

You #2 number one was a classic, a real thriller in every sense of the immortal words of Michael Jackson: "It's a Thriller. Thriller, yeah!"

Mr. Bates continues to show us the new heights in animal research torture technology. It's any wonder today when you think: "How could a truly sick mind like that have ever been born?" Yes, he's as sick as he's thirty eight years old and his mother's still trying to have an abortion. He's bad! But anyway, Mr. Bates' infamously funny I find most resaltable.

The other side of the coin is "ralls".... such as the "Indigent" who according to his number one customer, Mr. Tom MacIntyre Phillips, is selling his "ralls" on New Blvd. near Boy's Town. Come on Pete! You're just played off at your old "pal" the Indigent! It's written all over your article in the last issue. (It's probably written all over that good toilet paper you call a "diary"). That's the matter Pete, your grapes are old! The Indigent? Well you swallow the last time?

And finally, the last of the three stages, that pseudo-intellectual faggot, uh... what's his name? I.J. is something like that. His typical resort to a stupid question is usually (always) an infantile collection of random probabilities with no purpose at all except to "sue fair" in front of all of P.J.'s 13 year old girlfriends. Also he thinks it's funny when he gives someone two of the same choices for his so called advice. It's like going to McDonalds and having one of the employees say... "Would you like a small burger or a small burger?" Then all the McDonald employees burst into laughter, real funny, huh? Anyhow, it's obvious he writes his articles while sitting on the throne and listening to some "Hungry Samson" records.

Mr. Twister,

LOU REED → LISTEN → GOMEZ DUPREE

On November 3 Lou Reed played at the Arlington in Santa Barbara. This is something that doesn't happen too often. In fact, Lou Reed has never played in Santa Barbara before.

For those of you who don't know who Lou Reed is, he is not that new guy who does 'Love You Suzanne'. You be doing that song but he has been around since the sixties when he was the leader of The Velvet Underground. Although a satirical band, The Velvets were not a bunch of hippies, they were cool. They produced some intense music in songs such as 'Heroin' (written by Reed) and 'Sister Ray' with great Reed lyrics such as: 'Hey man you shouldn't do that, don't you know you'll stain the carpet' and 'she's too busy making on my ding-dong'.

The show was great, probably the best this year, at least outside the cultural center of Oxnard. The set was of a good length and contained songs from all periods of his career. Although he didn't play heroin or shoot-up on stage, the audience got their money's worth.

The band was real cool, complete with a keyboard player who played an accordion on one song.

The best member other than Lou Reed himself was the guitar player, Robert Quine, a bald math teacher, nerd type who played the loudest, trashy solos I've ever heard (well almost). He was great, my spinal column fused and my ears bleed.

Being high quality journalists representing a high quality journal we were fortunate to obtain a short interview with Mr. Reed. So here it is.

Q: Tell us about 'There She Goes Again' (an old Velvet song)
Mr. Reed: I heard this Marvin Gaye song with this great intro so I took it. CONTINUED Pg. 6

60 Miles North,

I just wanted to say your tape is really grate and I read it whenever I can. Also, I've heard a really grate tape "A Kutt Inalegg-else". There's a really hot new band from Berkeley, and their tape is only $3.00 (not a money breaker).

Dear 60 Miles North and Letters 60,

I recently heard your songs on the Hardcore compilation. I really liked 'The Song Of Howard Hughes', but I was pissed when I heard 'Men'. I am not a homo and have no great love for gays, but most gays have some metabolic or mental fuck up. You don't write songs about retarded people do you? Were you that hurtle for material? The 'Song of Howard Hughes' is probably the best song on the compilation, but understand our gays have emotional, mental, or metabolic problems. I hate when bands write about them when I write. I can usually think of something to say about the real members of our Society.

Hells 60 Miles North.

Just wanted to say hello and thanks for the review on our L.P. So what's the hell going on out there? We've had two shows cancelled there. We want to play out your way. I guess it's the usual no ball, no $, police, blah, blah. Anyway, if you hear of anything opening up maybe someone out there could give us a call. Here's our # (213) 481-1322. Well, keep up the good waz.

thanks

60 Miles North,

I sent away for one of your rines a little while ago. Good stuff guys. When I read your rine, I looked into the Ill Repute album and found it used in a Record store down on Broadway. I bought it for 4.50 used and it's one damn good album. lately I've been writing them asking when they're going to play up here. Their shows keep getting cancelled, but sometime they'll get one. I've seen a couple of the bands down in Oxnard, Staling 13 and Dr. Know, hot bands. Saw them here, not down there.

LOCAL GOSSIP

OXNARD

SCENE REPORT

by TONY C and Jeff

ACRESSION is back together again. For the thing is, it's the same old ACRESSION everyone knows and loves as well. Yes, Henry and Alar are back and the boys have been playing shows most recently up in the Bay Area. Rumor has it they will play with the CIRCLE JERKS in town in Dec. Also, Big Bob says he's trying to set up a local show with THE ROTTERS. ILL REPUTE's live 7 inch (is it Tony's or John's ha ha) will be out very soon. They played a recent show at the Town and Country in the heart of Buena. They played a very impressive set. Sometime mid-December they will go on a mini tour of Denver, Salt Lake, and maybe Vegas or Reno. They are also busy working on a new L.P. DR. KNOW are back from their U.S. tour which apparently went over well. Kyle said riding in a camper for a month with five really people was a blast and Imael told me that they made so much money from the tour and L.P. that they will by their own private jet for future tours. Rick said the drugs and women were almost too much to handle.

STALAG 13 is back again (where did they go?) with a new drummer, but how new we don't know. Come on hom, give me some straight facts okay! They are playing shows again. Look for them at the Town and Country on the 13th of Dec. with THE ROTTERS.

That's right, you heard it right here, THE ROTTERS are together with Dave Grave taking over on vocals for the absent Nigel.

FALSE CONFESSION are playing local shows too and will have their 7 inch L.P. released by the time you read this.

SECOND THOUGHTS got to open for ILL REPUTE at the Town and Country and Alternative Music's Tony Bell who is their vocalist, bragged about how much they had been practicing and it showed. Only bad thing that happened was guitarist, Shine, got his guitar stolen.

Tony Gatten said that UV-8 from Ventura played a hot set at the Town and Country. Look for this trio who is playing a kind of 81 type punk.

BEARDS OF DOISE is no longer together according to member Erik, but he said there are plans for reforming or getting a new band together.

KORAEI CORPUS has been playing a lot of parties and the exposure on the Hardcore album is helping too. They are interviewed in a Carpenter's Famine and should have an interview in here this month or next.

SCARED STRAIGHT are good and another of those up and coming bands that should be seen.

December and January should be hot months for local shows. Big Bob, Dave Rock, and Rick from Dr. Know are all working on putting on shows. And hey, if you want your band to be mentioned in this gossip page write in. So until next issue, see you at the shows and don't alan into my camera okay!

THE CHURCH - REVIEW

On October 27 the great but unknown Australian band, The Church, played their first U.S. concert, appearing with The Rain Parade at the posh Hollywood Palace. The show was delayed for no apparent reason for an hour. By the time the Palace had filled, it was obvious that most of the people were simply curious clubgoers than serious Church fans.

The Rain Parade started things off with a powerful set, their new drummer adding a solid backbeat to a tangle of guitars, bass and keyboards. For someone who had never heard them before, I was very impressed.

After another long wait, our heroes came out, throwing everyone off by opening with the mellow "Fly", which led into a cracking "One Day". Although no one moved around very much or smiled, singer Steven Kilbey remains a fascinating stage presence, playing bass in an almost catatonic state.

Their song list was much too short, leaving out such Church classics as "Sisters", "Into My Hands", or "Now I Wonder Why". For their encore they did a stunning "Is This Where You Live?" which came out as the best song live, leaving I'm sure, an excellent impression on the audience.

For anyone who likes classic pop/rock similar to The Byrds, N.E.M., or any folk bands from the 60's, this is the perfect band for you. Let's hope this is the start of much success in America.

LOU REED continued.....

Q: What about "My Bad Joyntick"?
(off the new album)

Mr. Reed: I was trying to write a James Brown song.

Q: Do you steal all your songs?

Mr. Reed: Absolutely! I don't write anything, they're all stolen.

Q: What kind of motorcycles do you have?

A: At this point about 10 to 15 security guards grabbed me, threw us outside and beat the shit out of us and then the interview ended. It was great. As our tape recorder was smashed into little tiny bits and the tape shored down our throats the above conversation is from our worst memories. It may not be exactly right.

DEAR P.J.:

by P.J. LANDERS-VAN BUREN

DEAR P.J.: I heard a rumor that B.Y.O. kept most of the money from Aggression's album and used it to put out 7 Seconds' album. Can this be true?? I know that B.Y.O. has a bad reputation of ripping off Oxnard bands, and that 7 Seconds has a bad habit of not answering their fan mail, but is this whole thing about the Aggression album REALLY TRUE? What kind of Better Youth Organization is this? One that steals and bankrupts?? Please set the record straight and tell us whether or not it really happened. I'm not a mean person, really, and I promise I won't vandalize your car/home if you don't print this letter, but I really hope you do because it is a topic of interest to everyone - hopefully the rumors won't be true. It's a shame people have to talk shit about anyone at all, but I guess there's nothing I can do about that. Anyway, peace and love, and please, please, please, PRINT THIS LETTER!

THE PAL,
starving in Cambodia, CA

P.S. Do your yajamas have feet?

DEAR PAL: I'm not really a mean person either, so I promise not to slit your costume with an ice pick if you vandalize my car/home. But I must advise you that I have no control over the actions of some of my madder associates.

You claim that the answers to the questions you have posed are of interest to everyone. I, for one, am not the least bit interested in the rumored situation which you describe. Furthermore, I doubt very much whether anyone in the small town of Flotsam's Ristake, New Jersey is even aware of, much less interested in, the issue. In order to set your mind at ease, however, I can assure you that the rumors of which you write are not true. B.Y.O. gave the money from Aggression's album to ME. The money was put to good use, as I had a great time in Vegas. Lost a bundle at the craps table, but made it all back, and more, at blackjack. I invested my winnings in controlled substances and expensive wines. So you, and aggression, can stop wondering whether their money was used to finance the 7 Seconds album.

Finally, I don't think the design of my sleepwear is any of your business, unless you are of the female persuasion. In that case you will no doubt want to perform a complete personal inspection under actual conditions. Show about next Saturday, alright?

(GOOD ADVICE!)

DEAR P.J.: I go to school with a lot of hippies, and it really makes me sick because they have the (unwashed gill) to say shit when they can't even afford a haircut!! What should I do. Sincerely,

ANTI

DEAR ANTI: It's the bad you didn't include any examples of the "shit" the hippies say. That would have given me greater insight, and a better idea of how to help you deal with the situation. Generally speaking, though, the best way to begin dealing with such bizarre views is to remove the hair. This relieves the gravitational pressure on the brain caused as the hair is pulled earthward. Such pressure causes severe impairment of the ability to think and reason clearly. Once the hair has been removed it is relatively easy to train the hippies to think, act, and even speak like real humans. The tricky part is to remove the hair in the correct manner. If done too quickly the sudden release of pressure may cause the remnants of the hippoid brain to expand too rapidly and burst through the skull casing, thus making a bloody mess and instantly killing the subject. While this may be acceptable, and even desirable in some extreme cases, such radical measures are not usually recommended.

The best way to remove the hair is slowly and deliberately, allowing the compressed gray matter to gradually readjust to the absence of constricting pressure. Most doctors recommend that the hair be singed away about an inch at a time over the course of several days. Since many hippies will not consent to this procedure of their own accord they must usually be drugged and confined for the duration of the treatment. SEND TO GOMIES WORTH

Rock-a-billy WITH THE... THE BLASTERS

By Chester and Jeff

PHOTOS - Jeff

Chester was originally supposed to write this interview, but due to car complications or weather, he wasn't able to do it before deadline. Actually, he did do the interview (and the questions). This sat. eve. in the Casa De La Raza in Santa Barbara after their show that night. The show was a big success for promoter Moss Jacobs as the Casa was jammed full of blaster fans. He was able to talk briefly with the "lapala brothers" Phil and Dave Alvin.

The interview started out with Chester asking Dave (lead guitarist) what thought our questions.

SMN: Oh, questions? What? Where'd you get those boots? (Dave is wearing red cowboy boots with silver tips).

Dave: They were given to me by my girlfriend. I looked for years for a pair like these. My girlfriend designed them and a guy in Texas named Larry Mihan hand made them.

SMN: Those are cool. Are these tips silver?

Dave: Yeah. (he looks down at them) They're getting dirty.

SMN: Jeff, you have any intelligent questions?

No. Of course not.

SMN: What kind of car do you have?

Dave: I drive a '75 Chevrolet lapala. A beat old one.

Phil (vocals, guitar) walks into the room.

SMN: I have some questions for you. Do you ever worry about hurting your face when you sing? I mean, there's veins popping. No doctors have ever said, "be careful!"

Phil: Be careful? No, no. When I was a kid in the choir, they told you, to hit high notes, you had to move your face and I learned that stuff and that's the way I always sing. Not only when I sing, but when I play too. It's good for the face, it workouts all the muscles.

SMN: Yeah.

Me: What's the name of the new album?

Phil: "Hard Line".

SMN: Are you guys going to send us some promo copies?

Phil: Who am I talking to?

Phil Alvin of Blasters

SMN: 40 Miles North. We print about 2000 underground fish wrappings a month. (Chester points to me) He's the caller.

I deny the acquisition and then there's a lot of noise and kids and.... Dave: Here you taking photos?

SMN: No, he was. (pointing to me)

Me: I saw you fall off stage. (Dave fell off the stage when they were exiting after their set) What happened? Dave: The stage was so hot that condensation built up and floor was like water and I slipped.

People, friends (female of course) are yelling for them to leave.

Phil: (telling back to them) Just a minute... any other questions?

SMN: Where are you playing next? When are you coming back here?

BLASTERS →

CONTINUED

Phil: Uh, probably next year after the album comes out.

DNN: Any videos?

Gaye: We're doing one with the guy who did "Wall Of Voodoo's" "American Radio" and a Ramones video too.

DNN: What kind of car do you have?

Phil: '73 Impala.

Dave: See, the Impala Brotherhood.

DNN: We're from Oxford we know all about Impalas.

Phil: Hey Oxford's a hot little town man, Oxford is, it's a real place. I drove through once, in the streets, not on the freeway.

The girls finally come in and snatch the Blaster boys away. It was a great show and Phil and Dave, the people you think of first when you think of the Blasters, were cool guys.

The Residents PART 3

THE RESIDENTS part III

by T.S. DEARSON

The Residents first "official" release was a Christmas card titled "Santa Day". It was a four track double 45 set that was mailed out to such people as Frank Zappa and President Nixon. They expected a huge barrage of letters to arrive stating praise of such a unique undertaking but also, the letters never arrived. The copy sent to Zappa was even returned to them due to a lack of a proper address. [The set was eventually given away in a contest hosted by Ralph records several years later].

Butter but worse, they went back into their "studio" and eventually recorded and released "Meet the Residents". It was finally pressed in early 1974 but no one wanted to carry it. Record distributors were afraid it would give them a bad name if they even listened to it. Ralph eventually sold the last one around 1976, and it continues to be a valuable collectors item commanding up to $300 for a mint copy.

They were overhyped by the failure of the album, thus they decided to fall deeper into their anonymity and they started filming what was supposed to eventually be the ultimate cult film of all time "Vicious Circle".

The boys worked feverishly for three long years constructing, testing down, building sets, touring down town, acting, and video taping the adventures of a group of odd urban noddits. The actual story is too detailed to go into here but if you really want to know a bit more about the film, I suggest you find a copy of the video cassette that Ralph has just released. It tries to explain what happened to the project, and why it was never finished. (I happen to own a copy). "Meet the Residents" proved to be such a flop that the group decided to take the time to do another one. This led to the recording of the album "Not Available". The album was recorded during a period of great tension among the five members of the band that they almost broke up and called it quits.

One of the members did leave the band but his whereabouts are unknown at the time (although it is rumored that a check is issued annually to an unnamed person known only as "Ruth"). The "Not Available" tapes were crushed away in a vault with the instruction that they were to never be heard until the band had completely forgotten about them. After settling their differences over a very gross food fight, they settled down into their studio to record the brilliant album "The Third Reich And Roll". This loving blend of almost every popular 60's top forty song you can think of done in the Residents own style finally began to wake up a few people to the idea that there was really some thought and artistry going into this "weird noise".

Next issue... Satisfactor, Schwamp, and The Residents First "live" show.

Also... my annual report of the worst music of 1984.

WELL, LETS GO... THE CATHY IS LONG DEAD BUT WID ANYONE SEE THOSE SHOWS IN SEPTEMBER & OCTOBER? SOME REAL SHIRT BANDS PLAYED, LIKE HIM 34 (IN THEIR "SUPPOSED" LAST SHOW -), BAKED BAYGUN, & PERHAPS THE MOST ANYONE BAND IN THE WHOLE U.S.A. THE SIXTY ONE KRAVEZEL WHO PLAYED A GREAT BIT WRENCING SET OF ALL THEIR SONGS OFF THEIR NEW L.P. (WHICH IS A MUST) COME ROCK BOON! O.K. ENOUGH OF THAT. MOST OF WHAT I'LL WRITE IN THESE LITTLE PAGES ARE EDITORIALS, LIKE THIS... I WENT TO THAT PARTY ON THE GRAND WHERE MARIAS CORNIE & WHERE B.F.U. & SCARED STRAIGHT WOULD PLAY, & IT WASNT FOR THE TOTAL ASSHOLES WHO WERE WALKING AROUND CREATING FIRMS, PUSHING OTHER PEOPLE AROUND, & JUST BEING MEAL WHITENED. THESE DICKS BRANG ON THE CORP, WHO RUINED IT FOR EVERYBODY! MY QUESTION IS, WHAT ARE THESE ASSHOLES TRYING TO PROVE? NOW IM NOT SAYING ANY "PUNK IS THIS & THAT IS THAT". BUT MY OPINION TAKE IT AS IT IS, IS THAT PARTIES SUCK & I WISH THE PEOPLE WHO START THE SHIT WOULD JUST MELLOW OUT OR GET OUT. I DONT SEE BANDS BECAUSE I WANT TO SEE MINDLESS VIOLENCE & STUPIDITY. I SEE ENOUGH OF THAT FROM THE MOST OF THE MINDLESS MASSES. I COME TO SEE BANDS & HAVE A GOOD TIME! & IF YOU COME TO FIGHT, OR SHIT DRINK & BE STUPID OR WHATEVER, YOU MIGHT AS WELL STAY HOME. SO THE BEST OF US CAN ENJOY THE SHOW/ PARTY. SORRY IF I SEEM "PREACHY" BUT BE HONEST, HOW MANY GIGS HAVE BEEN RUINED ON ACCOUNT OF THIS?

GENERAL PUBLIC: GENERAL SOUND

PAUL MACKENZIE

My reasoning was simply, "What better way to spend a nice Sunday afternoon?" Indeed, the sun was blazing... and, the show was free. A free concert tends to draw huge crowds, and so it was that GENERAL PUBLIC drew 9,000 bodies to UCLA for an outdoor show. Not an overwhelmingly good show, cuz G.P. ain't an overwhelmingly good band. However, the outdoor setting was conducive to their breezy pop/ska/reggae sounds. Ironically, General Public's set at the Palace in Hollywood was generally pretty general.

"Why then," you may be thinking, "does he see a band twice if he doesn't care about 'em?" Well, if you dig the BEAT, you would naturally wanna hear what the next step was. Just like JAM fans gave the STYLE COUNCIL a chance, and PISTOLS fans checked out F.I.L., ETC... Unless of course, you're one of those negative cats who won't give any new attempts a chance cuz you're too insecure to part with your faves. If you are, might as well go back to your time warp, Jack, cuz you're only in the way.

Anyway, I don't need to justify my concert-going to anyone, so piss off, anyhow!... Meanwhile, back at UCLA, G.P. delivers an up-beat, energetic set. The music lacks the thrust of the old BEAT, plus it's just watered-down, weak-kneed, and wobbly pop music. But...yes... it is fun, and you're a pretentious woren if you can sit through it without tapping your feet, at the least.

Golden boy Dave Wakeling and Ranking Roger sound good, but are certainly upstaged by their bass player--an ex-SPECIALS member. Still, 4,500 girls fell in love with Wakeling anyway, so he must be doing something right. Being a man of the strings myself, I must report that G.P.'s guitarist is WEAK. Sort of how a Republican would envision Walter Mondale to play guitar: weak, unimaginative, repetitive. Where the Hell is Mick Jones! He's supposed to be part of this band too, dammit... get his hand out there, I say, to loan some much-needed IMPFIGHT! to the general sound. Mick Jones is just the grease they need to get the squeak out of their clean.

(This is what you want, this is what you get)

This of all P.I.L.'s albums is the most highly produced. This is a great album even though I had to listen to it a few times to get used to it. Keith Levine, former guitarist for Public Image has a new P.I.L. album out too. I has the same cuts as ("This is what you want, this is what you get") except different mixes of each song. Keith Levine's version is more raw, not as highly produced and just as great. This record is highly recommended for anyone who likes P.I.L. Score 9+

SIOUXIE AND THE BAKINKEES LP

"Syene"

Of all the albums Siouxsie puts out, this is the best, but that's what I say everytime. Siouxsie's voice is in the best shape ever. This album is influenced by "The Creatures" album (Siouxsie and Budgie). This album has great percussion and also has GURU guitarist Robert Smith on it. Great lyrics, still dealing with death, bones and dogs. This album is for all who have tasted. Score 9+
